Dear Dr. Graaskamp:

It is a great pleasure to inform you that you have been appointed as a Member of the Editorial Board of The Journal of Real Estate Research. Included with this letter you will find the complete membership of the Editorial Board, a set of Style Instructions, and a copy of The Journal's Publication Policy and Review Process. As Editor, I am particularly looking forward to working closely with you over the coming months.

The Journal has already begun to receive manuscripts for publication consideration and we will most likely begin to mail out manuscripts to reviewers within three weeks. The first issue of The Journal is planned for publication during early September 1986. In order to achieve this ambitious publication deadline, members of the Editorial Board will be asked to give their immediate attention to manuscripts as they are received. I realize that everyone's time is valuable and so in an effort to even out the workload we will attempt to distribute manuscripts to as many Editorial Board Members as possible.

Again, congratulations upon your appointment as an Editorial Board Member for The Journal of Real Estate Research. I feel confident that together we will be able to produce a high quality academic publication. I am looking forward to working with you in the near future. If you have any questions or wish to discuss any aspect of your commitment as an Editorial Board Member please feel free to call or write.

Sincerely,

Dear ARES Colleague:

At the Third Annual Meeting of the American Real Estate Society in Orlando, the Board of Directors approved the creation of an entirely new journal entitled, The Journal of Real Estate Literature (JREL). The purpose of this letter is twofold, to make you aware of the new journal and to solicit proposals for its editorship.

The basic concept of the JREL is to provide a comprehensive index, with abstracts where possible, of real estate literature. Real estate literature is defined as broadly as possible to include all relevant subject areas and approaches. Thus, the JREL will index work in "mainstream" real estate and related areas such as economic geography, planning, and others. In addition to the indexing, articles refereed by the JREL Editorial Board dealing with literature reviews and/or syntheses and book reviews may be published. The general idea is to emulate the essence of The Journal of Economic Literature, but with variations appropriate for real estate.

The final structure of the JREL will be developed by the Board of Directors and the Editor(s). The Editor(s) will be selected by the Board of Directors from proposals submitted to it. If you are interested in becoming Editor of the JREL, you should submit a proposal to:

James R. Webb
Executive Director
American Real Estate Society
Department of Finance
University of Akron
Akron, OH 44325

Proposals must be received by June 1, 1987. A decision will be made by the Board of Directors by June 15, 1987.

The Journal of Real Estate Literature has the potential to become a very important research tool, as well as an outlet for papers summarizing and synthesizing real estate literature and book reviews. I hope you will seriously consider submitting a proposal to edit this exciting and useful new journal.

Sincerely,

Larry E. Wofford
Editor, The Journal of
Real Estate Research
